The Ship of Life: A Journey using Creative Techniques

Margaret Nimmo-Smith has worked as a qualified Adlerian counsellor for over 20 years and has 19 years experience as a supervisor holding diplomas from both CST and CCPE. She started her life as an Adlerian tutor in 1998 and has now retired after tutoring her 7th group of Diploma students. She had 20 years of experience working as a counsellor in a GP practice. She still works for Cambridge Cruse Bereavement Care, where she undertakes many different roles including supervision and training. She has presented workshops at ICASSI, in Latvia and Ireland, at the Adlerian Spring Conference as well as at the British Adlerian Summer Schools which she helped to run for 10 years. Margaret currently organises the programme for the Cambridge Adlerian Society.

Presented by
Margaret
Nimmo-Smith

This two day workshop offers the opportunity to explore the use of creativity within counselling, from an Adlerian perspective, providing the experience of a variety of different media, techniques and skills, and exploring personal development.

In this workshop we will:

- discuss the use and theory of creativity within counselling, linking this to the Adlerian concept of Lifestyle
- explore and use a range of different techniques including art, collage, clay, use of artefacts, movement, sculpting, story and more
- venture onto a personal journey of exploration
- observe and discuss each process in a safe manner

Tea & coffee will be provided. Please bring some food for a shared lunch.
