Group Counselling and Therapy

Presented by Gerhard Baumer

Dip Psych, Reg Psychotherapist (Germany)

Gerhard Baumer trained in Berlin as a clinical psychologist over 25 years ago and has worked extensively as a psychotherapist, supervisor and trainer in Germany and the UK. He is on the faculty of the International Adlerian Summer Institute and regularly provides training input for the Diploma and Continuing Professional Development programmes in London, Cambridge and Wendover. He is regularly invited to present sessions at the annual UK Adlerian Summer School.

Gerhard integrates Adlerian Psychology and psychoanalytic approaches in his work.

An experiential weekend to improve your self-awareness and your understanding of group processes

The keystone of psychic health is, according to Individual Psychology, social interest (Gemeinschaftsgefühl) which can be most successfully extended in non-threatening group experiences.

This weekend will demonstrate Adlerian groupwork through experiential exercises.

The course shows how evolving group dynamics and Life Style analysis can be combined successfully to evoke increased self-awareness, support chances of mistaken assumptions and goals and improves the sense of social belonging and social interest. It shows as well how to lead groups from an Adlerian perspective.

This course will be of value to people who work as professionals with groups (counsellors, therapists, social workers, teachers) as well as for those who are primarily interested in greater self-awareness.

Tea & coffee will be provided. Please bring some food for a shared lunch
